The Actors Theatre Workshop, Inc.: Interns – Buffalo, NY 5/17/18

The Actors Theatre Workshop's Internship and Volunteer programs provide unique social and educational opportunities for local and international students and community members. These opportunities are accessible to diverse groups of people who gain and contribute professional workforce experience in various projects that help change people's lives, and bring art, creativity, and theatre to our community.

Interns and volunteers are trained and supported by a senior management staff with extensive professional experience in organizational management, creative theatre techniques and educational programming as well as experience in marketing, finance, and professional writing. The ATW senior staff put forth considerable time into project development, scheduling, task priorities and the tracking of intern and volunteer progress.

The program begins with a one-to-two-week training in theatre operations and enriched by reading essays written by ATW's Artistic Director and Founder Thurman E. Scott, as well as viewing video tape documentaries of past programs and productions. The training period allows volunteers to learn about ATW's core mission and creative philosophy while gaining hands-on knowledge of its operations.

Both interns and volunteers provide support for ATW management, development, and production activities. Interns and volunteers receive one-on-one training with consistent support throughout the participants' duration in the program and in the preparation of the final public presentation which showcases their professional development to all ATW program participants.

The roles available include positions in fields ranging from Accounting, Business, Marketing, and Sales to Human Services, Information Technology and Computer Science.

New York Public Interest Research Group – Intern – Buffalo, NY 5/16/18

New York's largest environmental and consumer advocacy group is now hiring for a statewide campaign to protect the environment and public health. The New York Public Interest Research Group \(NYPIRG\) is a nonpartisan, not-for-profit organization that advances important public interest issues through sophisticated grassroots organizing and advocacy, public education, and media exposure. Since 1973, NYPIRG has played a key role in fighting for more than 150 public interest laws and executive orders that protect the environment and public health, safeguard consumers, improve public transportation, and foster open responsive government.

Climate change is the most urgent issue of our time. With climate deniers firmly in control of national policies, it will be up to the states to hold corporate polluters accountable. New York must lead the way!

NYPIRG is hiring college students, recent grads, and others to mobilize the public on this critical issue. Build your resume, make friends, earn $2800/month this summer, and help build a movement to stop climate change and win a renewable energy future. The position is well-suited for students interested in a job that provides valuable organizing and public speaking skills in a campaign environment as well as for recent graduates interested in a career in public interest work or preparing for law or graduate school.

Qualifications: The ideal candidate is energetic and has good communication skills and a strong concern for environmental and social justice issues. Prior campaign experience is a plus, and there are rapid advancement opportunities for qualified individuals.

Hours: Monday-Friday, 2 PM - 10 PM

College Fashion: Weekly Columnist/Intern – Remote

5/16/18

College Fashion is looking for a weekly columnist to start July 1st and continue through the fall semester (December 31st).

Responsibilities include writing, researching, creating outfit layouts, and keeping up with the latest trends. Writers will be expected to contribute one 500-1500 word blog post a week and will be able to choose their own topics, work from home, and set their own hours.

What we're looking for:

The ideal candidate will be enrolled in college as of Fall 2018 (recent grads will also be considered), passionate about all things fashion, responsible, self-motivated, creative, and organized. Preference will be given to candidates with prior blogging experience, fashion-related or not. (Personal blogs count!) Applicants should have a strong command of the English language and should be able to handle writing on a deadline. Knowledge of Adobe Photoshop and/or Canva is a big plus.

How to Apply:

Send an email to zephyr@collegefashion.net with Weekly Columnist as the subject. Include the following:

- Samples of your writing (include your blog URL if applicable) – the more relevant the better! If you don't have experience writing fashion or blog-style articles, write up a sample CF article to show you can handle it.
- A list of topics you'd like to cover for CF.
- Where you go to school and your class year
- Tell us whether or not you have experience with Photoshop or other graphic editing programs
- Information on any other relevant experience that qualifies you for this opportunity

Basically, we want to know why you're perfect for the position. Standard resumes and cover letters are boring, so the more personal and creative your application, the better. Can't wait to hear from you!
